Subject: Links to Resources

As discussed, here are some links to be shared with the FWG.

A subject matter expert on de-identification: Khaled El Eman, Canada Research Chair in Electronic Health Information, University of Ottawa. Information can be found on their website: <http://research.uottawa.ca/people/el-emam-khaled>

The IPC has a number of resources related to de-identification, including:

- Looking Forward: De-identification Developments – New Tools, New Challenges, May 2013, https://www.ipc.on.ca/images/Resources/pbd-de-identification_developments.pdf
- De-identification Protocols: Essential for Protecting Privacy, June 2014, https://www.privacybydesign.ca/content/uploads/2014/06/pbd-de-identification_essential.pdf
- De-identification Centre: <https://www.privacybydesign.ca/index.php/de-identification-centre/>

Yesterday it was noted that the health sector has done a lot in the area of de-identification. In case you want to supplement the additional resources, here are a couple of resources that may be of interest:

- Ross Fraser and Don Willison, Prepared for the Pan Canadian Health Information Privacy (HIHP) Group, Tools for De-Identification of Personal Health Information, September 2009, <https://www.infoway-inforoute.ca/en/component/edocman/supporting-documents/500-tools-for-de-identification-of-personal-health-information>.
- Data De-identification Working Group, Health System Use Technical Advisory Committee, 'Best Practice' Guidelines for Managing the Disclosure of De-Identified Health Information, <http://www.ijpc-se.org/documents/hhs10.pdf>.

Also, the UK report on anonymization is very interesting, in case you have seen that: UK Information Commissioner's Office, Anonymisation: managing data protection risk code of practice, November 2012, <https://ico.org.uk/media/1061/anonymisation-code.pdf>.

The IPC's investigation report where the issue of personal information stored outside of Canada is discussed: https://www.ipc.on.ca/images/Findings/2012-06-28-MNR_report.pdf

If I can provide you with any additional information, please let me know.
