Subject: Update on Reports Site Refresh Project

As previously communicated, the first phase of the Reports Site Refresh project will extend the service life and capacity of the Reports Site to ensure the IESO continues to meet its service levels for availability of access and meet the growing requirements of its customers. The second phase will help position the Reports Site for the future, by introducing new programmatic and user interfaces to retrieve reports.

The first phase is expected to be released in Sandbox the end of February. The programmatic interface that complies to "Outbound Automated Document, Application Programming Interface" specification (http://www.ieso.ca/Documents/ti/Market_Results/IMO_SPEC_0100.pdf) will continue to work. We encourage participants to take advantage of the Sandbox release, and verify that their programmatic software is still working. We will communicate again just prior to the release in Sandbox at which time we will also announce the Production release of this phase.

The second phase is expected to be released in Sandbox by the end of March. It will contain REST-compliant web services (API) with supporting documentation, as well as a new user interface. The Production release is currently planned for June. Following the June release, a production parallel-run timeframe will be established, where both, old and new Report Site URLs, will be available to support the cut-over to new report access interfaces.
