Thank you to those who submitted feedback following the September 4 meeting. The IESO will endeavor to provide responses to the feedback by September 27, 2013. Status of Market Rule Amendment to Support Interim Process

The draft market rule amendment to support the proposed Interim Outage Management Process was posted for comment through the IESO Market Rule Amendment Process. Based on the comments received, changes were made to the proposed market rule and have been reposted for stakeholder comment until October 10, 2013. The changes include:

- Changing the advance approval deadline for outages requested for pre-approval from 23:59 EST to 14:00 EST on the business day prior to the start of the outage.
- Re-instating the requirement to request final approval and communicate the actual start and end times for outages requested for pre-approval.
- Changing the IESO obligation to only include all advance approved outages in the weekly security and adequacy assessments.

These changes were presented for information at the September 17 IESO Technical Panel (TP) meeting. The TP is expected to review the final market rule amendment at its October 22 meeting.

The IESO is offering to host a webinar for participants in the Outage Management Redesign stakeholder engagement (SE-109) to provide an opportunity for discussion and general information on the feedback received within the Market Rule Amendment Process that resulted in the changes to the current market rule amendment. If there is significant interest from stakeholders to participate, we will schedule a webinar on Friday, September 27, 2013 from 11:00 am-12:00 pm.

Please email stakeholder.engagement@ieso.ca by September 24, 2013 to express your interest in participating in this webinar and pending adequate interest, the IESO will make arrangements and confirm any further registration details.

Thank you,
IESO Stakeholder Engagement
