To whom at the IESO this may concern:

You posted a number of documents last Friday (September 23) and gave members of the public exactly one week (5 business days) to submit their comments.

Giving members of the public one week for review and comment is disgraceful --and is very telling as well. This decision on your part to give the public 5 working days to submit comments reveals a deep sense of entitlement on your part as seen in your position that you are exempt from all of the accepted norms for public comment (a minimum of 30 days). It also reveals your total disdain for public input.
