Subject: Electricity Planning in Toronto: Public Webinar
Date: March 28, 2024 2:29:26 PM

Regional electricity planning is underway for the Toronto region to ensure a reliable supply of electricity, and to support local growth and economic development.

The Independent Electricity System Operator (IESO), through the regional electricity planning process, is assessing available options to meet Toronto's future electricity needs by examining the unique needs of the region, and considering options, including local resources, to meet the needs of the area.

On Tuesday, April 16, 2024, from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m., the IESO will host a webinar to provide an overview of the electricity landscape and the regional planning process as well as seek your feedback on draft electricity demand forecast scenarios and our proposed engagement plans. REGISTER to participate.

The webinar will kick off the public engagement process where participants can learn about the integrated regional resource planning process, what this means for Toronto, and how demand is growing in the city. Participants are invited and encouraged to participate including, but not limited to, local municipalities, Indigenous and Métis communities, businesses, stakeholders and members of the general public.

To stay informed, subscribe for updates to receive information about key initiatives and engagement opportunities.
